The Australian Standing Stones

A Monument to Our Heritage

The ambitious Australian Standing Stones project, was commenced by a few dedicated citizens, committed to acknowledging Glen Innes' Celtic Heritage.

In Australia's 1988 Bicentenary Year, the Celtic Council of Australia developed the idea to erect a national monument to honour all Celtic peoples who helped pioneer Australia.

Glen Innes responded with a submission for the Australian Standing Stones based on the Ring of Brodgar in Scotland's Orkney Islands. When Glen Innes was granted the honour to build it, volunteers carved the massive granite boulders from the bush.

Now the Standing Stones are recognised as the national monument to Australia's Celtic pioneers, the recognised national gathering place for Celtic descendants and clans and venue for the hugely successful Australian Celtic Festival.

The Standing Stones is a working calendar, like those used by the ancient Celts to decide when to sow and harvest.

Visit the Australian Standing Stones with the step-by-step guide to the Australian Standing Stones brochure from the Glen Innes Visitor Information Centre.

The Australian Celtic Festival

Australian Celtic Festival

On the first weekend of May thousands of spectators, clans, national groups and artists flock from across Australia and overseas for the annual Australian Celtic Festival.

It's a unique, colourful and exciting spectacle of Celtic celebrations, including up to twenty different clans from Wales, the Isle of Man, Ireland, Brittany, Galicia, Asturias, Scotland and Cornwall.

What's constant is the spine-tingling skirl of pipes, roll of drums, massed bands, Celtic dancers and entertainers, boutique traders, Highland Games, re-enactment village and the hallmark Glen Innes tartan.

The Australian Standing Stones are the perfect setting for the Festival's weekend celebrations with concerts, performers, local business window displays and attractions within the township of Glen Innes.

Celtic traditions are also re-enacted throughout the year including winter solstice celebrations at the Standing Stones on 21 June and a flag lowering ceremony for the summer solstice on 22 December.

Indigenous Roots

The Ngarabal (also: Ngoorabul, Ngarrabul, Ngarrbal) people are the traditional Aboriginal owners of the Glen Innes area. The Ngarabal name of the township of Glen Innes is Gindaaydjin, meaning 'plenty of big round stones on clear plains', and the region historically has been a significant meeting place for various indigenous tribes.

Early Settlers

The first settlers were guided to the district in 1838 by two convict stockmen with long, flowing beards and it is believed to be the origin of the name Land of the Beardies.

Town and district history has been lovingly preserved in the superb folk museum, Land of the Beardies History House Museum and Research Centre where the wide range of exhibits include a re-created pioneer's cottage, early farm equipment and moving representation of the wars. Even the building itself, formerly the Glen Innes and District Hospital, is a museum piece, the first section built more than 130 years ago.

Emmaville Mining Museum, 45km northwest of Glen Innes, recalls the village's past as a late-19th century tin mining boom town which attracted thousands of European and Chinese miners. The museum has an extensive mineral collection, replicas of a mine and blacksmith's shop, rare photographs and a nostalgic general store and military display room.

Fishing

More and more Australians are discovering Glen Innes Highlands as an outstanding fishing area. This includes families, expert anglers and some of Australia's leading television and fishing writers.

Kayaking & Canoeing

The many creeks, rivers and dams that surround the Glen Innes Highlands make up some great water sport hideaways. At Beardy River Bridge, 11km North of Glen Innes, there are plenty of spots to go kayaking and canoeing. Many of our farm stays also have flowing creeks and rivers where you can kayak, canoe and fish.

Bird Watching

Glen Innes is a popular destination for observing the array of birds that inhabit the surrounding countryside and national parks.

Mountain Biking

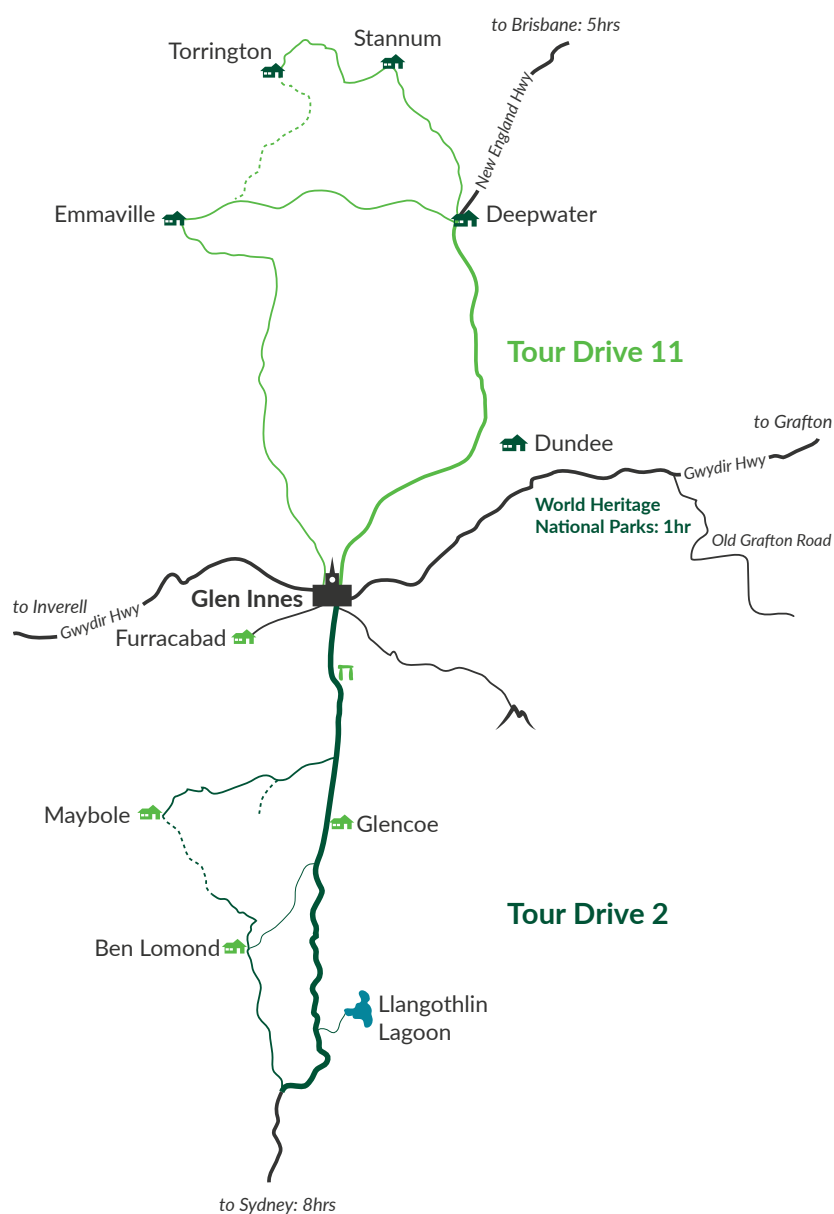

For mountain bikers and hikers, the Gibraltar Range and Washpool World Heritage National Parks offer 80km of scenic trails. Bike riders can complete the World Heritage Walk in one day, 45km of scenic National Park in 6-9 hours or you can complete these in 3 separate rides

Fossicking

Fossicking

Fossicking in Glen Innes is a simple, easy and fun family activity, with the chance to 'strike it rich.'

Glen Innes is part of New South Wales' most prolific sapphire region, said to be the world's richest mineral diversity belt.

There's a wide range of fossicking sites, and no licence is needed except in State Forests. Call in at the Visitor Information Centre for guidance and a brochure.

Guided field trips to fossicking sites are a feature of the annual three-day Minerama Fossicking Gem & Jewellery Show, one of the biggest of its kind in NSW! Held on the second full weekend in March.

minerama.com.au

Scores of commercial and hobby traders, dealing in gemstones, minerals, fine jewellery, lapidary supplies and other items display their wares at Minerama.

There are over 100 stalls trading in gemstones, fine jewellery, facet rough, lapidary tools & supplies, crystals, beads, fossils, mineral specimens, arts, crafts and more.

So try your luck fossicking!
